

Special Terms for Consumables used with Endovascular Robotic Systems

(Version: dd.MM.yyyy)

These Special Terms for Consumables used with Endovascular Robotic Systems govern the provision of consumables related to endovascular robotic systems, including cassettes, drive gears, drape for the robot arm and the drape for the console ("Consumables") in addition to (i) the Commercial Form, and (ii) the General Terms and the Supplemental General Terms (together "Terms"). These Special Terms for Consumables used with Endovascular Robotic Systems shall be read as complementary to the Terms and prevail in case of conflict.

1. Consumables will be delivered within 2 weeks from acceptance of the order.
2. The warranty period for Consumables expires 12 months from date of delivery according to the agreed upon Incoterms, or upon the stated expiration date on the product label, whichever occurs first. No warranty shall apply to any Consumable which has been damaged due to Customer's failure to comply with the environmental conditions set forth on the product label or otherwise notified to Customer.
3. Consumables are labeled for single use only and may not be re-used after such single use. A Consumable may not be used after the stated expiration date. Customer shall comply with the environmental conditions including without limitation storage and operation conditions indicated on the product label of the Consumable or otherwise notified to Customer. Siemens Healthineers shall not be liable for any loss or damage resulting from Customer's failure to comply with the terms stated in this Section 3. Customer shall indemnify, defend and hold harmless Siemens Healthineers from any damages, losses and expenses arising out of a claim by a third party as a result of Customer's failure to comply with the terms stated in this Section 3.
4. Immediately after receiving the Consumables, Customer shall examine them for transport damages, Defects or any other deviation from the agreed upon terms and shall immediately notify Siemens Healthineers about any deviation in writing (email being sufficient) referencing the order number. If Customer does not provide any such notification the Consumables shall be deemed accepted.
